Homes Are Raided and Two Men Taken Away

BELFAST, Sept. 25.—One man was shot and killed and a woman wounded during rioting in the Newtownards road district in East Belfast Saturday. A public house in Cambrai street, north Belfast, was looted and burned.

Armed and masked men raided the homes of J. Whittaker, general manager of the Castlecomer-Kilkenny coal mines, where a strike is in progress and of J. Bargreaves, manager of the mines. Both men were taken away.

The girl was wounded when the police and military fired on crowds in Seaford street.

A saloon was burned. One bomb was thrown in the Milewater road, wounding six persons, two seriously.

One version of the earlier bombing in East Belfast is that a Unionist crowd threw a bomb into a liquor and grocery store to set it on fire and that they were made the target for a republican bomb.

Military reinforcements arrived this afternoon.

Johnston, commander of the division during the entire war, sent greetings to the delegates yesterday from Coblenz, Germany, where he is now stationed as commanding officer of the First Brigade, American Forces in Germany.

In his message, General Johnston stated that as he is not in the continental limits of the United States, it is impossible for him to be present at such a notable occasion. He asked that his appreciation of the loyal, brave and efficient services rendered by the members of the division during the war, be expressed to every officer and enlisted man who formerly served under his command. Following is a portion of the message:

"It is very gratifying to learn that the survivors of the Ninety-first Division are perpetuating the memory of the excellent record made by the Division during these annual reunions. I hope all former officers and men who attend the reunion, will remember that the motto adopted for the Division was 'Always Ready.' I trust that in the future all the former members of the Ninety-first Division will enroll themselves in the Reserve Corps, now being organized under our former Commander-in-Chief, General Pershing, so as to be ever ready to be ready for any emergency which may arise in the future.

"Please express to every officer and man who formerly served under my command, my appreciation of the loyal, brave and efficient service rendered by them during the war, and my highest esteem for the Governors and the people of the States which contributed their best citizens to represent them with the American Expeditionary Forces in France and Belgium."

ARGUMENTS ON LIBEL HEARD

Outline City's Status At Hearing

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Arguments on the demurrer of the Chicago Tribune to the $10,000,000 libel suit filed against it by the city of Chicago were not completed today. At the outset of today's hearing Clarence S. Cleveland, special counsel for the city, addressed himself to a question asked by Judge Fisher yesterday as to whether a municipal corporation was to be treated as a private corporation or a governmental body in cases where its general administration was affected and some of its property rights only incidentally.

Mr. Cleveland said that the answer to this query would come from consideration of the nature of the action for libel as it was capable of enforcement by corporation. He argued that inasmuch as a corporation has no reputation to sustain it could be affected by libel only in respect to its property rights.

[illegible] Government cannot claim, said Mr. Cleveland, "the power to charge, as was done by the Tribune, that the city was 'broke' and not possibly affect the commercial of Chicago in any [illegible] capacity.

It also is felt that the second reservation, specifying that protection given to the United States in the property interests of [illegible] shall apply as well to American [illegible] would be no result except further to clarify what it is understood already.

CHARGE CAPITOL CHOSEN FOR COMBINES' WARFARE

Senator Cummins States Over-Organization Is Alarming

INFORMATION IS GUARDED, CLAIM

Says Public Opinion Is Lacking on Big Issues

DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 25.—Declaring Washington [illegible] a place where [illegible] take upon each other for which legislative purposes, Senator A. B. Cummins, of Iowa, in a speech here today declared the present tendency toward [illegible] in the country has created a [illegible] and alarming situation.

He declared that organization has gone to such length that it is now practically impossible for congress to get an unselfish and unbiased opinion upon any public question.

"The United States," he declared, "is over-organized and at the expense of independence of opinion. The safety of the country lies in a consensus of judgment among intelligent people. We are drifting toward a condition in which it is impossible to get that consensus of opinion; where [illegible] and association is [illegible] and [illegible] organized."

"Where are we to look in Washington when every bit of information that comes to us comes from selfish channels. Down there now it is simply a war between organizations. Congressional committees are constantly holding hearings upon important questions and I have yet to hear during this session, a single man come to a committee hearing for the purpose of establishing the consensus of the people's standpoint. All come to urge something that will help the particular organization with which they are affiliated.

"It creates, in my opinion, a very difficult and distressing situation."

He declared the present law, of [illegible] is not [illegible] and called it a failure.

Senator Cummins declared that the [illegible] had been going on for 40 years and called attention to the fact that [illegible] proposed to [illegible] a principal which would adjust disputes between [illegible] and their employees.

"If it had not been for the [illegible] given by the law," he said, "our railroads in the United States would have been in the hands of receivers, and [illegible] reasonable would [illegible] upon the people.

"I believe that it was possible to create [illegible] which would protect [illegible] disputes. I believe that if I were [illegible] I would [illegible] the Railroad Labor Board [illegible] and [illegible] the conditions which it [illegible] today."

The resolution in question [illegible] Peking today declared they regarded the present [illegible] of the Washington conference as [illegible]

WHAT FRESNO PASTORS ARE SAYING

PASTOR TALKS UPON ETHICS OF EMPLOYMENT

Rev. Thomas Clayton of Unitarian Church Gives Sermon

Need of Heroic Efforts To Practice Golden Rule at Present

"'Ethics of Employment' was the topic of an address by Rev. Thomas Clayton yesterday morning at the Unitarian church. He said in part:

"Our subject today is—The Indispensable Job. Life for the great majority of people depend on a job. In a properly ordered society there should be no lack of jobs. The present industrial order favors production, we might say, overproduction, but it does not favor the producer.

"Let us picture to ourselves the two opposite conditions.

"'In a job.' All is smooth sailing; skies clear. Families fed and fairly well satisfied. It is true, that many forget that the 'rainy day' is liable to come suddenly, and do not save or anticipate trouble. Then—suddenly it comes, and the light turns to darkness!

"'Out of a job. Often the movies give us the picture of a man out of a job, returning home with head down, dejected and despairing. The whole family perceive that something is wrong; the children learn that father has lost his job. Too well, from bitter experience, they all know what that means. That house becomes a house of death. Poor mother! she looks with terrible anxiety at her children! She knows how hard it will be with them!

"It is the sad sign of a grevious failure in our civilization, that we have so many jobless men today. There are six million of them in our country today.

"Among savage tribes everyone has a job, everybody works, or is kicked out of the tribe. Only among civilized men the willing men seek in vain for something to do in order to provide bread for women and children.

Ethics of a Job.

"It is high time we applied the higher ethics to this industrial problem. It is morally right, that there should be a job for every worker. The family man must, for every worker. The family man must, or else the state will have to, have one, or else the state will have to, support his family. The day when men, women and children starve to death, can no longer be tolerated.

"Furthermore—jobs must pay a living wage. That is what many jobs are not doing just now. Perhaps you will be surprised to learn what I found out in Pittsburg. Common laborers are now reduced to 20 cents an hour, with talk of further reduction to 15 cents per hour. At the present time most mills and factories are working with from 40 per cent to 60 per cent force, and only four days a week! So many families are living, or trying to live, and pay rent, on $9.60 per week!

"Of course, to pay a living wage, jobs must be paying jobs. No manufacturer or employer of labor can run a charitable institution. Workers should always bear this in mind, but many of them do not. There is a sad lack of sympathetic understanding and confidence between employers and employes, which is a source of costly friction. Many employers seek for cheap labor, drawing it from Mexico and southern Europe, without any regard for the well-being of the nation. This course is both harmful and unpatriotic, and as usual, the patient public reaps the consequences.

"The keeping of a job is conditioned upon several things. There must be 'orders.' Both sides are interested in 'orders.' Unless goods are sold, there will be no jobs. Then, there must be both capacity and faithful work by the employes, so that the goods are satisfactory to the customer, both as to price and quality.

"When there is a paying job, well filled, the wages should permit of a family living in reasonable comfort, and of the children being fairly well fed and clothed. Otherwise, bread-winners, in the nature of things, will have no heart in their work.

Hard Times.

"Consider the ethics of jobs; in hard times, like the present.

"First—we face letting out the workers. This is often done wholesale, and with heartless and sudden dismissal. Sometimes, it is softened with 'two weeks' pay in advance.' But it comes all too sudden and disastrous for families. A volume can be written about this. Many employers find no reason for curtailing their personal or family expenses, while they feel it necessary to dismiss large numbers of men without a thought as to what is to become of their children. They recognize no obligation whatever; but it is there, all the same. When 'cutting' force is necessary, every means should be used to lessen the force of the blow on the families. The longest possible notice should be given, and help extended. Much unwise letting out of good men in slack times in order to save expenses, re-acts upon selfish employers when the tide turns, and they cannot be recalled, because they have jobs elsewhere.

"Ethics demand that both sides practice the 'Golden Rule.' It is so obvious, that every race has taught it in some form, but no race now existing, seems to care to practice it. Social justice—not 'charity' is needed in these times. The time is near for us to stop emphasizing 'Welfare work' and 'slumming' by the rich and to see to it that common justice is meted out to every child of man. We have abused the parable of the 'Good Samaritan' long enough. We have sought to 'pour oil and wine into the wounds of the victims of our modern robbers, while the robberies go on just the same. It seems never to occur to us, that the thing to do is to suppress the robbers, and the work of the good Samaritans will come to an end for want of patients.

"We need to make heroic efforts to practice this Golden Rule, especially in such times as the present. With terrible unemployment, terrible strikes on our hands, now is the time to strike out for radical remedies for social distress; and the most efficient remedy we shall ever find, will be simple fair dealing, between man and man. Practiced by society as a whole, the Golden Rule will solve the employment problem, and every other misunderstanding and antagonism between classes and races of mankind. The President has an unemployment conference at Washington this week; but what can they do, except try temporary remedies, until the whole spirit and soul of the nation is changed by the influence of the religion that for ages has taught 'Thou shalt love the Lord God with all thy heart, and thy neighbor as thyself.'"

Christian Science Is Subject of Sermon Prelude

"In So-called Christian Science Founded on the Bible'" was the subject of a prelude to his sermon at the Westminster Presbyterian church yesterday by Rev. A. O. Raber. He said in part:

"That Christian Science was not discovered by Mary Baker, Grover, Patterson Eddy, far less yet, that it came to her as a revelation from God, is proven beyond the shadow of a reasonable doubt by the learned attorney, Frederick W. Peabody, in his book entitled 'One Religio-Medical Masquerade.'

"I cannot in this sermon prelude of ten minutes, enter upon anything like a discussion of the monumental error of this cult; I can only mention a few things.

"1. Christian Science denies the personality of God. Edition 1881, page 169, is the following question and answer: body'.

"2. It denies the Deity of Christ. 1916 edition, page 361.

"3. It denies the atonement. Ibid, page 25. Here we quote her words: 'The material blood of Jesus was no more efficacious to cleanse from sin when it was shed on the accursed than when it was flowing in His veins when he went daily about his Father's business.'

"The fact of sin and evil, as an awful and appalling fact in human experience, is set forth above six hundred times in the Bible, and Mary Eddy would just shove it out of existence, as being 'nothing' casting her own ignorance up against the Triune God, and in the face of all reason, common sense and self-evident truth, deny its reality; and claim, 'I therefore plant myself unreservedly on the teachings of Jesus and the apostles, etc' It is evident that her claim is false, and her teaching on the subject of sin and evil as vicious as false. It is just as glaringly false on almost every other fundamental doctrine of Scripture."

TELLS HOW TO RUN THE RACE

Charles Paddock, Noted Athlete, Talks

At the First Methodist Church last evening Charles Paddock, student at the U. S. C. and a noted athlete, spoke on the subject, "The Christian Race and How to Run It." He said in part:

"It is a big subject and one which has perplexed man down through the ages. It's not my purpose of course this evening to attempt to say how it should be run, collectively, but its similarity to the human race, makes it possible to describe how the Christian race can be run individually.

"For there is the start, the race itself and the finish, in both the Christian and the human race. The start has been improving down through the centuries in the human race.

"Now as the start for the human race has improved down through the ages so has the start in the Christianity race. Now it is not so difficult for a man to commence Christianity. We do not have the handicaps that beset the early Christians. We do not have to experience the trials which faced Paul and Peter. The horrors of the Roman has passed on with the age of barbarism. It is relatively easy to become a Christian in these days. But the man who battles all the way. Who is off to an even start and has his opponents beside him—his is the battle, and his the great victory when he triumphs.

"Then there is the race itself. This in the human race commences at about the 40-yard mark of a 100-yard dash, for up to that point the contestants have been so engaged in getting a start that they have not had time to ascertain their positions. This is the place where America is predominant, for this is where the fighting spirit counts most.

"If the sons of America possessed more of that fight in the Christian race, America would lead the nations of the earth in Christianity even as she leads the countries of the world in athletics.

"The finish is pointed out to be the result of years of training, and what a man has put into it that he will take out.

"But if a man puts his whole soul into his race, whatever that race may be, from the human race to the Christian race, and if he fights hard and fair and keeps himself fit for the fray he need never fear for victory. He will triumph in the end."

NEW CHURCH IS DEDICATED WITH CEREMONY

Presbyterians Hold Big Program Lasting All Of Yesterday

Pastors of Other City Churches Deliver Short Talks

Yesterday was a big day at the First Presbyterian Church, when the dedication services of the new Sunday school unit recently finished took place.

The first service was held at 10 in the morning, when a rally was held by the Sunday school and a splendid program was rendered. Diplomas were awarded to the members of the school and short talks were made by the assistant pastor, Rev. H. F. Truscott, and H. W. Shields, superintendent.

The morning service was one of dedication of the new building when a sermon appropriate to the occasion was delivered by the pastor, Dr. H. H. Bell. Pleasing music was rendered by the large chorus choir, and a charming solo "Resignation," was rendered by Harvey Humphrey. Short talks were made by W. C. Nixon, chairman of the building committee, H. W. Shields, Sunday school superintendent and Wylie M. Giffen, of the finance committee.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon a fraternal service in which the neighboring pastors of the city took part, was held. This was presided over by Judge H. Z. Austin, one of the oldest members of the church, and one who has been prominent in the work for many years.

After a beautiful anthem by the choir under director Prof. A. G. Wahlberg, in which the solo part was carried by Wilmot Hughes, a singer of much ability, and the invocation by Prof. W. G. Wiley, representing the United Presbyterian church, Rev. A. O. Raber of the Westminster Presbyterian read the scriptures.

Rev. William Louch, of the Arlington Heights Presbyterian offered prayer, following which Judge Austin introduced several of the visiting pastors.

Dr. H. O. Breeden of the First Christian, congratulated the members on their noble achievement in completing in so short a time a building of great beauty and convenience and which will be a dynamo of spiritual energy in the community.

M. G. Papazian of the Pilgrim Congregational conveyed cordial greetings of christian fraternity, and predicted that the new church would continue to be used as the old one had for 17 years for the glory of God.

Rev. F. H. G. Stevens of the First Church in a humorous way brought greetings from the Methodists of the city. He congratulated the Presbyterians on being a church that like districts of a city were restricted, and in that way were just that much more desirable in a community.

Dean G. R. E. MacDonald of the Episcopal Pro-Cathedral congratulated the members on the achievement, but said that it was not only what they had achieved by themselves but as a church that they were to be congratulated. The building is a definite contribution to the church life of Fresno.

Rev. Thomas T. Giffen told of how the congregationalists went out north and build a church years ago; and since then other churches came half way and he came the rest of the way to meet them and greet them.

Dr. John Freeman Mills of the First Baptist spoke of the importance of building for religious education, and commented the beauty and utility of arrangement of the new building.

Rev. F. R. Thorne of Dinuba, spoke of the inspiration this church would be to the churches of the valley.

Closing prayer was offered by Rev. Arthur Hicks of Fowler.

A beautiful solo, rendered in a most charming voice was given by Miss Ethel Amerine, "O Divine Redeemer," by C. Gounod.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. W. C. Hallenbeck of Selma.

At the evening service the new church organ was dedicated with appropriate service of music.

Farewell Sermon Given At Fowler

Rev. D. Catchpole, pastor of the Fowler Baptist church, preached his farewell sermon yesterday, his resignation taking effect with the close of the evening service. With his family he will leave Fowler for San Francisco on October 12. On the 28th of October all will sail on the S. S. Tahiti for Wellington, New Zealand. Mr. Catchpole expects to land on Saturday, November 19 and will fill a pulpit the following day. A charge awaits him on his arrival in the new land.

Rev. Catchpole came to California from Canada about ten years ago for the benefit of Mrs. Catchpole's health, which was greatly improved during their residence in the coast cities, but has not been so good since they have lived in the interior valleys. So they have cast longing eyes on New Zealand for the past two years and now the way is opened to them.

TURLOCK FRUIT MEN NEED CARS

Shortage of Iced Cars Becomes Acute

TURLOCK, Sept. 25.—There is a very acute shortage of refrigerator cars for the fresh fruit that is ripening rapidly every day, and shippers and growers are at their wits' end to know how to overcome the difficulty, as the fruit must be picked. There is no cold storage here. The railway people state that they are unable to furnish more than 50 per cent of the cars demanded and assert that over 700 cars of fruit and vegetables per day have been leaving California for a considerable time. Shippers who have not had immediate orders on hand are clinching the hurried expedient of sending sweet potatoes forward by box trucks, but that will not last long.

The gyp corn crop is coming along in fine order, and so far this season some 40 car loads have gone forward to various points. The price being realized for the corn is $30 a ton. Blackeye beans are coming in well too, although the yield is not heavy. The quality of the beans is good, but the yield and the quality would have improved with a little moisture at the growing stages. The red beans will be in in a couple of weeks, but the area planted here is not large.

Hi Y work will be started in Visalia in another week under the leadership of Major Righter of the high school faculty who will have charge here and Secretary Decker reports the resumption of activities in other schools.

Knights Ferry to Be Connected With State Road System

OAKDALE, Sept. 25.—Historic old Knights Ferry, which has been a side station since the completion of the highway to the Tuolumne county line, is to be connected up with through traffic again. Surveyors are now at work preparing plans for the half mile strip of road from the town to the highway. This has long been used by automobile dealers for demonstration purposes to prove the pulling powers of their machines. The supervisors are preparing to pave the hill, but the work has been held up by difficulty over rights of ways. These have now been settled and work will start at an early date.

New Officers Chosen at Lindsay Meeting

LINDSAY, Sept. 25.—Fresno will be the meeting place of the Masters' and Past Masters' association of the San Joaquin Valley next March, as a result of action taken by the convention of the association at Lindsay last night. This was the semi-annual meeting, with the members of Lindsay and vicinity as the hosts. Present and former presiding officers of Masonic lodges from Kern, Tulare, Kings, Fresno and elsewhere were present, with Arthur Crites of Bakersfield, president of the association, conducting the session and H. E. Verble of Fresno occupying the chair.

After a banquet had been served, with music, the ritual of conferring the past master's degree on a number of new members was conducted in the local lodgeroom. A. C. Tienken of Lindsay occupied the sat of honor in the proceedings.

After a very valuable service of several years as first president of the association, Crites, who is now Junior grand warden of the Masonic Jurisdiction of California, was retired at his own request. New officers were elected as follows: President, Frank W. Mixter, Exeter; first vice president, Ben R. Walker, Fresno; second vice president, E. P. Munsey, Bakersfield; treasurer, J. D. Stove Satisfaction is Offered You Here

There is no reason in the world why you should not be able to buy exactly the stove that best meets your own particular requirements.

It is made and someone has it to sell to you.

It is true that stove buyers have often "taken what they could get and did not get just what they wanted."

In elaborating our stove sales department this year we have proposed that in so far as it is humanly possible we will give to those who seek our doors "the stove that is just what they want."

Thirty-five years or thereabouts of merchandising stoves in this community has given us a view of the desires and requirements of the stove buying public that few others enjoy, and this experience comes loyally to our aid now.

Note elsewhere in this same space the grouping of "The Quality Trio." Those stoves—The Duplex Alcazar and the Occidental in combination fuel ranges; the Occidental in wood and coal ranges; the Reliable—the Angliron Reliable—represent what we believe to be the best stove the market affords.

Time tested as they are, they are the stoves that satisfy.

In our stove salesroom, given over exclusively to the display of stoves of all kinds, they are ready in great assortment for your unhurried and comfortable consideration.

In kind, size, price, type there is a stove that will be "just what you want."

In buying stoves—buy on a basis of satisfaction to YOURSELF.

OUR POLICY

To provide by means of a thorough and efficient organization the very best merchandise obtainable.

Furthermore, to dispose of our merchandise at prices consistent with such preeminence, and finally—

The indomitable determination to render good service to all.

THE IDEAL ARCOLA

The economical, inexpensive, practical permanent heating plant for the bungalow or cottage. No basement is required for its installation, yet it serves as does its big brother—the elaborate furnace—a healthful sufficient heat in every room of the house.

The Ideal Arcola is new—yet it is the product of a factory experienced in heat engineering for scores of years.

Our mechanical department will call on you on request and will give estimates of cost without obligation to you.

THE FAIR OPENS

Today opens our fair.

The "our" in a proprietary sense means the people of Fresno county. In a broader sense, that of usefulness and advantage, it means of us, of any part of the country, who are so situated that we can either attend it or exhibit at it.

Evidently what we should do is to take advantage of this proprietary interest. We should get all possible out of the fair. And we can legitimately get everything possible out of it, by using, to the fullest possible extent, its opportunities for informing others and informing ourselves, of the things that are to be learned in the fair, as well as to take advantage of its incidental amusements.

We should like at this time to point out again the primary usefulness of the fair, its chance to tell each one of us something new, that is worth our while.

One of the principal means of maintenance of the fair is the charge that is laid upon those who exhibit there.

Why do these business men pay high rent for space at the fair? Do they do it because they wish to make a contribution to the cost of the fair? Only in very small part. Do they exhibit because they want to sell you goods? That is an even less part of their incentive.

What they want is to have you understand what they have. They want you to understand everything possible about the business in which they are engaged. They have gone into it because they are convinced that it is a good business for the people among whom they are living. They have staked the best years of their lives upon this judgment. They are satisfied that there is a place for them in this business, and that the business will reward them with a reasonable share of the comforts their neighbors enjoy. There is just one thing lacking to their confidence. Their goods are not known. They are not understood.

So, what they are taking advantage of the fair for is to give you a chance to know their goods. They want you to understand them. They want you to know everything possible about the various makes and patterns, each effort to satisfy a human want through this commodity or contrivance.

They wish to arouse in you a discriminating taste.

Each man of them has a natural pride in his own output. He is satisfied that if you know the field, you will pick his commodity. He is willing to take his chances in the competition. But he has no chance, if you are ignorant of your own needs and of the possibilities of the inventive and producing world to supply them.

So we would like at this time to emphasize the merit of the commercial exhibits. They supply a most valuable addition to the "attractions" of the fair. They should be made generous use of.

Of course you are going to plan your days at the fair with special reference to the amusement program. This is quite natural. You are going to say that you will, if possible attend at such a time and in such a way as to see certain things on the program.

But do not overlook, in the program planning, the general opportunities offered by the fair. Set aside a half hour or an hour or two hours, as you can, to see the things that are to be there every day. You will profit by it.

IMPERIAL EXTENSION

How far afield the Japanese view of "mandates" has receded from the view held by the rest of the world is illustrated by the language of a recent report from Tokyo, giving newspaper accounts of what is quite evidently an official view of the situation. The report says that "Japan will also study the American claim to land ownership in Yap as foreigners do not have the right to land ownership in Japanese territory.

Yap is claimed by the Japanese Empire as a part of its "mandate" from the League of Nations, under the Versailles treaty. The mandate includes all the islands formerly held by Germany that lie north of the equator. The islands exclusive of Yap are now being overseen by Japan, without question by any one even the United States. The reason is Yap is questioned is not because of any discussion of the nature of the mandate but because President Wilson entered a special reservation, verbally it is claimed, to the assignment of this island, because of its value as an international cable station.

The United States holds that Yap is not a proper part of the Japanese mandate over the German islands both because of the reservation entered by President Wilson while the United States was functioning as a part of the wars settlement conference, and because, after the United States had ceased to be a part of the war settlement procedure, whatever acts were committed by the other powers in the Allied conference or in the League of Nations did not bind the United States. Japan, on the contrary, questions the existence of the Wilson reservation and holds that the United States, by abandoning the conference waived any right to question the acts of the conference. As a legalistic matter, the United States holds that its rights are all reserved, while Japan holds that American rights are all waived.

But Yap brings to light a much more important question, one that affects all the former German islands.

Does the mandate given by the League of Nations to Japan for these islands, whether Yap or otherwise, give such a title to the islands that the Japanese limitation on land ownership applies to them?

Japan seems to hold that it does. The United States should in a most positive manner discountenance any such view, not as a matter of American interest, but as a decent interpretation of the nature of these mandates.

The mandate is an attempt to give international authority and some responsible regulation to the system of state wardship. For instance, the relation of Great Britain to Egypt for many years has been one of guardian and ward. For the most part, this relation has been one of great advantage to Egypt and not outrageously remunerative to Great Britain. Yet it has been severely criticized. It has been pointed out that in ordinary life, guardians may abuse their wards. So courts are given authority to supervise and regulate wardship. But in international affairs, there has been no provision for supervising such wardship as Great Britain exercised over Egypt, and of which there are other less conspicuous instances.

When the terms of the treaty of Versailles were being arranged, it was thought advisable to commit various portions of the territories to be taken from Germany into the direction of the Allied nations for the purposes of education on the conduct of their own affairs. It was a new form of wardship. But it was remembered that objection had been frequently heard against the old, unregulated wardship. As the Allied conference was to be responsible for the creation of these mandates it was felt that it should also provide for future supervision. This was committed, under the terms of the League of Nations covenant, to that league.

The assumption that no matter how long the mandate might continue, its responsible character should also continue.

There was no question of "ownership." Yet Japan is discussing the application of its land laws to Yap. It goes without saying that it will attempt to apply these same land laws to other islands.

Will such an administration of land be for the benefit of the people of the islands? Will it be an evidence of the fatherly care of Japan over its mandate? Would such a regulation be interpreted as a just form of payment to Japan for the expense of administration of the islands? Or would it be a proof of the determination of Japan to use the Great War and the terms of the Versailles settlement as a means of imperial extension?

A MUSIC TEMPLE

One of the features of the Civic center for Fresno which we are all certain will come into being but about which there is much vague hoping rather than definite acting, is the housing of public music.

Naturally, the proposal to have a great municipal temple of music most nearly fits into our ideals of what the municipal auditorium should be.

The municipal auditorium, as it will some day be built, will profit by our mistakes of the past. Naturally it will be constructed so as to be of the most use. It must be fitted to entertain as great gatherings as we will expect to have in Fresno during the next twenty five years, at least. It should be be adapted for both speaking and singing. It should be fitted both for seeing and hearing.

One of the main groups of public opinion in Fresno with reference to this building will be the musical interests.

Should there not be a musical council for Fresno? Should it not include all the organizations that naturally will be interested in the development of public music? Should it not be so organized that the musical interest in a City Auditorium of the right kind will have its share of influence and its share of responsibility in preparing for the right kind of building?

Such an organization should be developed—for this one purpose!

We know how often such organizations are apt to go afield. There is much danger that they will get entangled with private ambitions, with diverse notions of the artistic development, with enterprises of doubtful business advisability.

This sort of a musical council should be kept free from every purpose except that of getting a music temple for Fresno.

It should be organized during the present winter.

Fresno's Yesterdays

Taken from the Files of the FRESNO REPUBLICAN

Forty Years Ago Today

J. F. Wharton, of the firm of Wharton & Larkins, having purchased several lots on H and Stanislaus streets, is erecting a handsome and substantial residence. The house will cost about $1500, is 32 by 45 feet, and will contain six large rooms, bath room, cellar and closets. Mr. Wharton came to Fresno to stay. He is enthusiastically confident of the future wealth and prosperity of the town and county, and proposes to grow up with the country.

A telephone line has been put in successful operation by Frank McDonough, from his waterrooms, on Mariposa street to his shop, a distance of a block and a half. This is the pioneer line and will serve to illustrate the workings of this much talked of convenience. We hope to see this maiden effort followed by a network of wires all over our village. The cost of putting up a quarter of a mile of wire with receivers complete is $10.

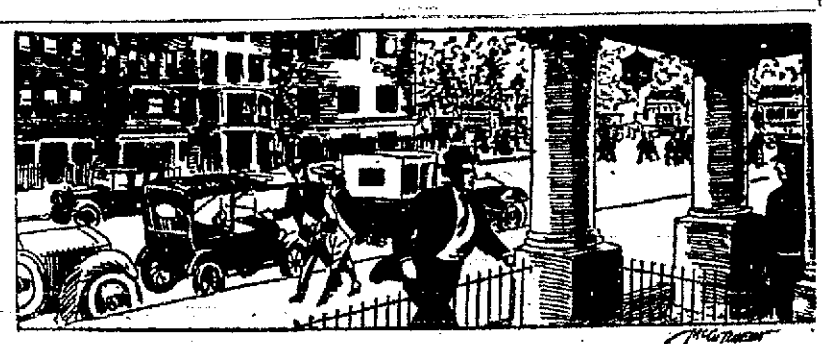
Twenty Years Ago Today

Rev. George E. Freeman has lately arrived in the city for several weeks' visit to his home of past days. He came here first nineteen years ago, when Fresno's industries were in their infancy. That year the output of raisins was 5000. Fresno was then a shanty town of 2000 people. Mr. Freeman organized the Congregational church of this city and was for some years its pastor. During this time he built the Congregational church at a cost of $6000, which since has been improved into the present attractive structure. He was among the first to locate a 40-acre lot on Elm avenue, which with his nephew, George B. Freeman, he still owns and finds a source of satisfactory profit. For some years he was quite prominent in the horticultural interests of the county. While his home and work for some years has been in the East, all matters pertaining to Fresno and its advancement are carefully studied and are of deepest interest. He is enjoying great pleasure in this new visit and in reviving for a few weeks pictures of old scenes and in renewing friendships with associates of other days.

The newly formed Y. M. C. A. elects as directors: Robert Kennedy, John Q. Anderson, William Glass, F. J. Haber, F. M. Lee, Ed Shumm, A. A. Murdoch, F. D. Prescott, G. W. Wyllie, A. V. Lisenby, J. D. Morgan and C. H. Eccleston. On October 1, this institution will take over the quarters hitherto occupied by the Fresno Athletic club.

The directors of the Raisin Growers' Association made an important move on the raisin chess board yesterday, directed against the "Low Five." As already explained the "Low Five" as members of the Packing company promised to hold on, thereby making it uncomfortable for the "High Five," Cattle Brothers and A. L. Sayre, the association packers. The "Low Five" intended to demand their rights under the contract with the association, and they gave promise of proving a thorn in the side of the others. The Raisin Association has cut the Gordian knot, however, by passing a resolution canceling the contract with the Packing Company, and thus clearing the timber for the formation of a new packing company, as had been desired by the "High Five" for some time.

AN HEIR AT LARGE



CHAPTER II.

Would Miss Muriel Lannard look with more favor upon Mr. Henry Livingston Bacon, heir to fifteen million dollars, than she had upon young Harry Bacon, struggling along on $3,500 a year?

This was the hypothetical question which that young man, still staggered by the fact of his inheritance, put to himself as he sat in his room.

Heretofore he could offer her nothing but love and a well established proficiency in pugilism—not a useful asset in married life!—but now he could offer a wealth of things sufficiently overwhelming to make even her ambitious mother gasp.

He recalled that lady's chilling politeness. By numberless acts, trivial but subtly expressive, she had indicated her active disapproval of his attentions to her daughter.

How would she act now? Would the magic of that huge figure impel her to graciousness? The thought gave him considerable pleasure. He spent some time rolling it around in his mind. He pictured himself gazing into her frigid, unfriendly eyes and saying: "By the way, Mrs. Lannard, had you heard that my uncle has just left me fifteen million dollars?" He wondered what else she would do beside fall off her chair.

It was certainly an impressive sum. Reduced to terms within his comprehension, it was equivalent to 600,000 weeks' pay at his present salary. Much could be done with that amount of money, much good or much bad.

He thought of other rich young men, and decided they used little imagination in the use of their opportunities. Some had been ruined by the destruction of all incentive to effort. Others had plunged madly into the pointless scramble to double their wealth.

Bacon resolved to follow neither. But it became increasingly important that the fact of his sudden accession to money be kept secret. Along that course lay the only hope of success in the plan which was dimly forming in his brain.

The vast power which was now his must be withheld from the knowledge of those whose attitude would change the instant his money eclipsed himself in their minds.

With this plan of campaign, he called up the residence of Mr. E. Johnstone Lannard. Miss Lannard was at home.

"This is Harry. I want to see you very much. May I come over?"

"O, I've such a headache. I'm awfully sorry."

"How about tonight? You may be feeling better. May I call you up again later?"

There was a long silence. When she spoke again there was a faint suggestion of irritation.

"What is it, Harry? The same old thing, or something else? You know how mamma feels."

"But this is important—a great secret that I'm dying to tell you."

There was another strained silence.

"O, well—come this afternoon about five."

The receiver was hung up on a young man who had many more things to say. He smiled a little bitterly.

At five o'clock, when the Avenue was thronged with aristocratic cars, a second hand Ford drew up before the stately residence of Miss Lannard.

Harry Bacon leaped out and was soon greeting her jubilantly.

"My car is outside," he announced. "I just bought it today and I want you to be the first to ride in it with me."

Her eyes lighted up. This was interesting!

"Your car, Harry!" she exclaimed. Since when could he afford a car?

"O, it isn't a very grand car," he answered modestly, "but it goes."

"And so do I. I'm dying to see it."

She hurried away and soon reappeared in her smartest hat and coat.

"Let's go up the avenue and through the park," she said gayly.

Uncommon Sense
By John Blake

Clothes

Perhaps you can't afford expensive clothes.

But you can afford clean ones.

You know, you say, that your clothes are not part part of you.

But other people don't.

They look at you in the clothes you wear.

They picture you, when they think of you afterward in those clothes.

If the clothes are slovenly, they consider you slovenly.

If the clothes are smart, they consider you look "the goods."

Henry Ford, Thomas A. Edison, and a few other celebrities are not particular about their clothes.

But those men are made.

If they had their lives to live over again, in these modern times, they would probably take a different view.

If you look prosperous, people are likely to think you are prosperous.

If you dress like a failure, they will consider you a failure, and failures get few chances.

Clothes, of course, are not everything, but they are a great deal.

It is not the coat that makes the man, but it is the coat that gets the man his chance.

By-and-by, when you have "arrived," you may be able to indulge a taste for dowdiness.

But you can't at the start.

Dress inexpensively, if you like, but in good taste. Avoid shabbiness, and avoid flashiness at the same time.

The man with the loud checks and the gluss jewelry is just as repellant as the man with the dandruff on his coat collar.

People dress better and better, in appearance at least, as the years go by.

You must look clean and prosperous if you want to impress people. And if you don't impress people you will never get anywhere.

The binding doesn't make the book, but an attractive cover helps sell it.

The Outcast.
From the North American Review

I have no place to keep you any more;
Your shrine is broken; on the sagging door
And on the window, too,
The dampness gathers and the ivy clings,
And there the little bird that sways and sings
Sings of his nest, not you.
The music that was yours has trailed away.
Gone with the incense and the dripping light
That stained your forehead where you stood all white
I cannot put you in the noisy day;
What would you make of all its jangling strings—
You whom the silk-net cherished and the night
Touched with slow moving wings?

If I could build anew
The broken beauty where you dwelt before,
And watch the moonlight stealing in to pray,
Just as it used to do,
I know my dreams would come again and say
The orisons they knew;
But life that gives so much will scarce restore
At all or gather back the dust she flings,
Or make new homes again for homeless things;
I have no place to keep you any more.

More Truth Than Poetry

To a Squirrel.
(On observing one make off with a golf ball)

If you garner that pellet for forage
If you fancy, in squirrelish delight,
You can keep it all winter in storage
And have it for dinner some night.
Your instinct is sadly misleading.
For the paint on the dimple faced pill
Is certain to make you exceeding—
Ly ill.

If your purpose is not dietetic,
If you're dragging it off to your hole
To gratify something aesthetic
That lurks in your wild soul,
You'll learn that your plans have miscarried,
For the bloom disappears from the cheek
Of the brightest of golf balls, when buried
A week.

If the fatuous notion you cherish
That some day you'll master the swing
And even develop a fairish
Adeptness in swatting the thing.
You are doomed to a swift disillusion.
Your dreams—so resplendent and fine—
Will be shattered in utter confusion
Like mine.

So you'd better relinquish your treasure.
And scuttle away to your den.
It will bring neither profit nor pleasure
To squirrels, any more than to men.
The sad human beings that dodder
O'er the course all these autumn days through
You will find are a lot fitter fodder
For you!

She Nearly Called Him "Dearie."

A gentleman came to me
The other night
In great distress
Asking me to make public
What happened to him
So that other lads
Who might get into
The same dangerous fix
Might read the story
And cut it out
And keep it for an alibi.
It seems this gentleman
Accompanied his wife
To a department store
And as they walked up and down
The busy aisles
And stopped at oddwhiles
The beautiful sales ladies
Would speak up
In this wise;
Dearie, they'd say,
Is there something
I can show you?
Or dearie this
Or dearie that
Or dearie something else,
But ever and always
There was dearie
In the conversation
And this friend of mine
Swears and affirms
That he was distressed
Almost beyond measure
Fearing and believing
That one of the ladies
Behind the counter
Who was so generous
With her "dearies"
Might look straight at him
When she said it
And his goodwife
Might have her eye on him
At the same moment,
And then he said
Only the good Lord
Could tell what would happen
This here gentleman
Wanted publicity
And here it is
And he also wanted advice
But I could only tell him,
(He being a member
Of the Lion's Club)
That I could only conjecture
What a man should do
Under such circumstances,
For a Rotarian,
And I am such,
Lives such a life
Of estimable blamelessness
That he never fears
To have his goodwife
Hear a beautiful saleslady
Call him "dearie."
A member of the Lion's Club
May quiver and quake
At his wife's frown,
But a Rotarian
Never does anything
Of which he needs be ashamed
And therefore
Need never be ashamed
Of anything
Which he has done.
I talked in this wise
For some lengthy time.
Trying to make very plain
To this poor lad
What a fine body of men
Are in the Rotary Club
And how their goodwives
Trust them in all things,
But when he left me
He was still trembling.
I wish I'd asked him
What store this was.
It sounds good to me.

HUMAN DOORMATS.
From the Minneapolis Journal

Are you living this beautiful life of self-sacrifice and self-abnegation—giving yourself for others? If so, one of your regards, some day, will be that a friend will come along, look over the situation and berate you for being "a human doormat." Esther Babson, who writes in New England, notes that "many a humiliated and humbugged man has lain down in the dust to be trampled upon by a small morsel of a woman," but she feels that, in the New England towns at least, the feminine doormat is the more common variety.

We cannot do better than to follow Esther's classification of feminine doormats. There is the bristly variety, and the rubber species, resilient; and the third kind are the worn-down, dejected, "I-want-to-be-a-martyr kind." The latter variety does the most mischief. In vain some well-meaning friend may ask impatiently, "Why doesn't Sue take her old mother for a visit, and give Amanda a little rest from waiting on the poor cripple?" "Why, Amanda loves to do it; she is so unselfish and conscientious. Sue has her husband and her son, and Amanda dislike she wouldn't take proper care of her mother." So the thwarted plumed submides, and Amanda goes on being a doormat and glorying in it.

Sometimes "big sister" in a large family is a temporary doormat, usually of the rubber variety, which bounces up the moment pressure is removed. This human rubber doormat is really not made of the correct doormat material, for the real human doormat suffers in silence and never bounces up, no matter if the pressure of feet is removed. With beaming face, she runs errands for everybody, waits on everybody, young or old; gives up her tickets to the concerts; looks after sister's baby while sister is out racing around; wears her 6-year-old coat and refurbished hat another year, to give money to the starving natives of some unknown Asian or African province, and is so unfailingly cheerful and happy that sinful humanity is almost driven to profanity in her presence to relieve its ruffled feelings.

The masculine doormat is usually trampled on by a small, temperamental wife. His children treat him with disrespect and generally regard him as the meal ticket provided by a generous providence for the impudent, and the lazy. He has the game in his own hands really, but mental laziness, cowardice and conformity have him in their enervating grasp and he drifts, thinking now and then, that he will suddenly and quietly migrate with whatever cash he can get in hand. But the days drift along, and he neglects to act and the chains are slowly but surely being more firmly riveted.

O. Henry, in one of his stories has a splendid picture of the sudden revolt, and migration of a husband-doormat, who is forced to lead wife's little dog by a string to give him his needed exercise. The little dog dress him into a saloon, where he gets the needed Dutch courage to rename the dog "Pete" and strike out with him for the Rocky Mountains, never to return. The dog tells the story and 'tis a masterpiece of humor and magic. Why don't the magazines dig up another O. Henry of something of his kind, instead of fooling away their good, white paper on sex problems, general human silliness and poppy-cockery?

Self-sacrifice and self-forgetfulness are fine virtues, but, when carried too far they sour on you and dogmattery sets in. It is wrong to be a doormat and have feet wiped on you. So far, at least, we may safely go. Not even your poor, old mother should take your life away.

Remember the little girl's story of the wolf who came up to the sheepfold and said to the lamb inside:

"Come out and be eaten; don't think always of self, think of others."

THOUGHTS

Menace of K. K. K.
From the Seattle Times.

The government cannot be indifferent to the activities of a secret society which is charged with fomenting racial and religious hatred. Neither can it permit such a society to expand unchecked to proportions that might make it a menace to the principles of religious freedom and racial equality before the law which are incorporated in the Federal Constitution.

Oil Reserve
From the Los Angeles Express.

When it is considered that there are 30,000,000 barrels of oil in storage in California and that present daily production exceeds daily consumption by 70,000 barrels, it isn't likely that threats of a general strike will even annoy the producers or embarrass any industry.

Corn is Again King
From the New York Herald.

Corn is king this year as usual, and in its habit of growing sturdily and complacently in spite of adverse conditions, it is the symbol of the Nation which devotes so much soil and energy to its cultivation.

A Philadelphia View
From the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Nevertheless, in some isolated instances the price of luxuries has dropped off in remarkable fashion. Over in New York now you can have your pet colony put out of the way for the small sum of $30.

Most Women Register
From the Harrisburg Telegraph.

Women voters have out-registered the men in Harrisburg, which should be a stimulus to the male population to take advantage of the last chance, September 17.

Leaves Persia Alone
From the New York Times.

In regard to Persia, the recent announcement would seem to mean that the convention signed between Great Britain and Russia on Aug. 31, 1907, dividing Persia into spheres of Russian and British influence has been made by the march of events a mere scrap of paper, and that so far as Great Britain is concerned she washes her hands of Persia and Persian affairs, leaving them to the Persians and the Russians to settle as best they may. If Russia does not become aggressive, Persia may again hope to resume her place as an independent nation. The times seem propitious for such a result, for Russia, like England, seems to have enough complications on her hands without meddling with Persia.

Schools More Interesting
From the Chicago Tribune.

One point about which there can be little argument, however, is that school and education are being made more interesting to the children. It is a matter for national congratulation, as it inevitably will mean a more solid foundation for national strength.

Realism
From the Washington Star.

"I understand Pluto Pete is drawing a thousand dollars a week from the movies," remarked Cactus Joe.

"Yep," answered Three-Finger Sam. "He ain't much of a desperado at that; but I reckon he's enough of a gunman to intimidate a manager when they're signin' contracts."

Repairing the damages isn't as pleasant as marching in Paris with Von Kluck. Crown on mine sweepers sigh with relief. They have removed all of the moored mines in the North Sea and have practically cleared the Mediterranean.

When the war ended, everyone said, "Mines will make the seas unsafe for generations." Yet how many ships have you heard about, sunk by mines since the armistice? Practically none.

DAREDEVIL TO ENTERTAIN AT DISTRICT FAIR

Many Feature Acts To Be Attraction On Grounds

"Daredevil Roy," the first person to ever drop from a flying machine in a parachute, will be one of the entertainers at the Fresno District Fair. He has been brought to the Pacific Coast by the fair association for an exclusive exhibition, prior to his leaving for France where he has been engaged for a month's exhibition at the Paris Exposition.

"Daredevil Roy" will jump daily from a balloon into the oval of the speedway by means of his perfected parachute. He will rise to an elevation of between 5,000 and 6,000 feet before he leaps off in his death-defying stunt. By means of his parachute, which he can control, he can land at any place in the fair grounds he says, merely by pulling controls attached to the device.

The stunt will be given each day and night during the entire week and a huge searchlight will play upon him during the night as he falls through the air.

"Daredevil Roy" was a doughboy and served with the army in Company C 333 battalion, tank corps. He saw active service in France. He is an instructor in aeronautics when not giving exhibitions.

Plans Triple Jump

In his coming exhibition at France, he will complete the first triple parachute jump ever executed. Together with his woman partner, he will rise to an elevation of 10,000 feet. At this elevation, the two will jump out and will cut loose from the parachute, dropping in a second parachute that opens. "Daredevil Roy" will then drop from this parachute and drop to the earth in a third parachute, his partner coming down in the second one.

"Daredevil Roy" first dropped from an aeroplane at Little Rock, Arkansas in 1910, being the first person to ever complete the perilous feat.

The Aerial Thompsons, including Robert Thompson and Miss Mildred Anderson, are to furnish a different kind of aerial thrill. The pair are acting together for the first time. Thompson has been in the game for 23 years and during the time has had over 25 accidents, receiving 38 broken bones from the falls he has taken. Miss Anderson was "discovered" by Thompson in San Francisco recently where her home is located.

Thompson became famous recently when he rode a bicycle on a taut wire stretched from the tops of two flag poles on the St. Francis Hotel 14 stories above the ground. While riding the bicycle he lighted a match and performed stunts on the vehicle. Suspended in mid air from the bicycle was Miss Anderson.

Another daredevil stunt that Thompson recently performed, which he says was the most difficult in his life and will never attempt again, was walking along a wire stretched from one turret on the battleship California to the one on the opposite end. Part of the "walk" was over the four smoke stacks. During the time he was making the "trip" the ship was rocking from side to side making the act very perilous.

Will Perform Stunts Here

Here in Fresno the pair will perform the same sort of a stunt—riding a bicycle on a wire 100 feet long at an elevation of 100 feet in the air. Thompson will change costumes in mid air, from a clown uniform to a full dress garb. He will smoke a cigar while reading a newspaper, balanced on his back on the wire. Thompson claims that he is the only person in the world who is still living who has chosen this profession for his livelihood. The other six, including three other duos, have been killed. The pair will perform daily each afternoon and evening.

Ed Sandow son of the original Jim Sandow, and said to be the strongest man in the world today, will also give an exhibition each day and evening. The act he presents is phenomenal and is highly praised by all who have seen it.

A heavy touring car loaded with 15 passengers is elevated 6 inches above Sandow's body. Sandow blocks himself against the front wheel, the car dropping on top of him and passing completely over his body. Without using his hands, Sandow, balancing a 200 pound lady on a chair on his chin, walks to the top of a 30 foot scaffold. With his bare hands he breaks a chain in three distinct pieces after two horses, one on each end of the chain, have failed to break it. He swings a dead weight of 900 pounds in one hand and swings 12 men on his neck. He keeps perfect time with the orchestra with his muscle control and performs numerous other sensational feats.

Mrs. D. C. Sample, formerly Mrs. Jones-Simmons, with studios in Blanchard hall, Los Angeles, for 16 years, will open a studio at her residence, 1435 M street, Monday, October 3. Mrs. Sample will accept a limited number of pupils in the Art of Singing. Phone 2650 J.

Space Doubled to House Exhibits From Valley

is due to Allison V. Jordan, director of exhibits and concessions. Jordan has worked faithfully during the past three months and has sold out every bit of exhibit space on the grounds. Every available space for concessions has also been spoken for and contracted. Due to the space being sold out early, Jordan has been able to see that the exhibits were put in place during the week rather than at the eleventh hour.

Expect Big Crowds

As a result, those who walk into the fair grounds today will see everything they would have seen if they put the visit off several days. Manager Patterson suggests those who can visit the Fair today to do so as there is undoubtedly going to be a tremendous crowd during the latter few days.

The one big innovation this year is the cafeteria which has been put in first class shape. The entire building has been renovated. It has been painted, enlarged and new equipment added. A cafeteria and a cafe are both open to the public at downtown prices. The best chefs obtainable have been hired to prepare the most delicious delicacies known.

Foley and Burke's big joy carnival of side shows, miniature circuses, games of skill and pleasure devices such as the merry-go-round, ferris wheel, flying aeroplanes, the whip, and other things arrived yesterday afternoon and were put up during the night. All of the equipment has been put in the best shape possible and will present a handsome appearance.

Today is children's day and thousands of school kiddies are expected to be present. All children are to be given tickets that will admit them free to this morning's session. Classes are to be dismissed at noon today. Starting Tuesday and continuing until Friday, children from other towns will be admitted free.

Automobiles will not be allowed in the ground today. They will be parked free in the 25-acre lot at the southwest corner of the Fair Grounds in all times, however. This is the official Fair Grounds parking service ground. Automobiles will be allowed in the oval on Saturday, however, during the automobile races.

HORTICULTURAL EXHIBIT TO EXCEED PAST RECORDS

Displays Cover Virtually One Half of the Home Industries Building and Are Held Greater Than Those of Previous Years

The horticultural exhibit this year is greater than ever before. Confined to the same space, the exhibits are less in number, but larger and of better quality. The overflow of the exhibit has been placed in the Home Industries building. Peter M. Rasmussen is in charge of the exhibit, which includes horticultural, agricultural, floricultural and nursery displays.

Of chief interest this year will be the four co-operative organization exhibits including the California Associated Raisin Company of Fresno, the California Peach and Fig Growers' Association of Fresno, the California Prune and Apricot Growers of San Jose, and the California Almond Growers of San Francisco.

These exhibits have taken one-half of the central part of the building and shows the rapid growth of co-operative associations in the state. It is extremely educational in its message to the public, showing the big benefits to be reached by co-operative marketing.

Another big feature of the Horticultural building is the community exhibits from cities of Fresno county and the southern sections of the valley. The communities represented are Delano, Earlimart, Selma, Kingsburg, Reedley, Parlier, Clovis, Kerman, Caruthers, Riverdale and Fowler.

Other exhibits of unusual merit this year include the displays of the Japanese Association the Setchel Fruit Company, the state department of agriculture, the state farm bureau, the school home garden department, the flower show, the Chamber of Commerce and two local fruit shipping concerns whose names have been kept a secret.

Professor Crocheron, head of the farm bureau of California is to be in Fresno to personally give the visitors to the display information that he has accumulated during his many years of study.

The prize winning Earlimart exhibit of the Tulare county fair will be seen in the Earlimart booth, while Delano will have a splendid display of dried and green fruits, and grains. Among the fruit to be displayed will be various types of Corinthian's, Thompsons and Muscats, and a thirty-eight-pound muskmelon.

Delhi Hall Will Be Center of Community

DELHI, Sept. 25.—If the plans of the settlers at Delhi are carried out, the community hall which will be dedicated by Governor Stephens on September 29 will serve as a center of an unusual social life.

Plans are under way for securing community credit for the purchase of cows, and it is expected that a lower rate of interest can be secured where all the dairymen go together in securing money for the purchase of dairy stock.

If this is done, the experience at Delhi will serve as a demonstration of community credit that will be of value to other communities. The community hall will serve to crystallize the community spirit, so that community activity will be possible that would not be possible in a less closely organized settlement.

FAIR NOTES

The educational department exhibits this year are especially noteworthy. The central feature is a model living room, every item of which has been made by school children. The furniture includes a handsome golden oak buffet, library table, victrola cabinet, mahogany fern stand, floor and table lamps, inlaid mahogany mantel clocks and serving trays, cedar chest, oak chairs and stools.

What Fresno county can produce in the way of minerals is shown in the mineral section of the agricultural building, in charge of E. D. Fitzsimmons, of Reedley, a specialist in this class of work.

Around 150 different species are shown in the mineral section, and roughly two-thirds of these are found right here in Fresno county.

One of the star attractions of the midway whose arrival yesterday aroused considerable interest, was Suzanne, the giant East Indian gorilla, and her baby, Suzanne, the largest ape in captivity, has been in this country only about two months. She was captured with Jimmy, her family of one, in the Dutch Borneo jungle village of Nyach, on the Pontanyee river.

In place of the former restaurant facilities, a new service has been started. A cafeteria in charge of Frank Haas and a restaurant and cafe in charge of Ellis and Wiggins of Fresno have been established. The two concerns have entirely rebuilt the building, have painted and remodeled it and have installed absolutely new equipment in it.

ELIGIBLE FOR APPOINTMENT

Officers Can Become Reserve Heads

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24.—Former officers of the Ninety-first Division, now residing in California, are eligible for appointment as reserve officers in the same division, United States army officials here have announced.

The announcement reads:

"Former officers of the Ninety-first Division and others who are considering applying for commissions in the organization will be interested to know that those who served as an officer in the United States Army, which includes the Regular Army, The National Guards in the Federal Service and the National Army, between the dates of April 6, 1917 and June 30, 1919, may eb appointed a Reserve Officer and assigned to the Ninety-first Division in the highest grade while he held in the Army, provided he resides in the state of California.

"Appointments under the above provision will be made only until January 1, 1922. After that date, service as an offdicer in the United States Army between the dates of April 6, 1917 and June 30, 1919 will not confer eligibility for appointment.

"Until January 1, 1922, the examination for appointment of persons who served as officers of the United States Army between the dates of April 6, 1917 and June 30, 1919, will consist of an examination of the military records of the applicants, supplemented in exceptional cases, when deemed necessary by a personal examination.

"After January 1, 1922, no appointments will be made based solely upon the examination of the records, as former officers ar ethereafter to be examined and appointments made subject to such examination."

ROMANTIC LURE OF HAWAII IS ATTRACTAINGING THOUSANDS

Writers From Many Parts of the World Inquire as To Conditions and Impress Desire For "Soft Jobs."

HONOLULU, T. H., Sept. 25.—The romantic lure of the south seas has become so potent throughout the world that the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce is faced with an increasingly onerous and embarrassing problem, its officials announced here recently.

For inhabitants of the cross, cold commercial world of the temperate zone desire—and make their desires known in a pile of mail that is increasing constantly with each steamer—to leave their unromantic atmosphere and come to Hawaii, the land of music and flowers, where tradition has the golden moon always full and where a person's life, according to popular belief, consists of lolling on the shaded beach at Waikiki, fanned by the cooling trade winds and reaching up occasionally to pluck enough fruit from the over-loaded boughs to afford sustenance.

The writers of the last stranger's mail ranged from stenographers, educators, chiropodists, ex-jockeys, to schoolboys and countless others. All emphasized the great sacrifice they would make in coming to the islands. The only condition they impose about the positions they hoped to obtain was that they be "soft," according to Mrs. E. K. Stone, acting secretary of the chamber.

"That's all they want," she added. "The number of letters containing the same request is increasing with each steamer and some drastic measures will have to be taken soon to cope with the situation. It can't go on, or the chamber building will be inundated."

One graduate of four leading universities, with a long string of degrees capped with a "Ph. D.," desired to come to some local corporation as an "efficiency educator."

Another letter asked whether hemstitching was popular in the islands. If so, the woman desired to transport her sewing to Honolulu. A young man in the backwoods of Maine offered to travel 5,000 miles to Hawaii to instruct the residents in higher education.

A girl in California referred to the spell that the Hawaiian moon has cast over her and wondered whether she couldn't help out some business man by doing "just a little typing."

"Some of the letters show that the writers have at least a little knowledge about the islands," Mrs. Stone said. "Others are just as farfetched as that written recently by a man in a small Virginia town. He wanted to know whether there were any nice, warm tropical islands for sale in this vicinity. I answered that he could find, without any trouble, a real estate firm that would sell him part of this island but doubted whether he could even obtain a lease on all of it."

Another incident illustrating the lure of the tropics concerned a letter that some friends of an army enlisted man stationed here wrote to a newspaper in Portsmouth, England, signing the private's name without his knowledge.

"This is more or less a lonely life for a fellow in Honolulu, as white women are scarce," the joking letter read.

More than 1,000 women in England have written thus far, offering to marry the man, he said recently. The women range in age from 11 to 40, but all have felt the urge of the south seas. The letters are so numerous that postal authorities in San Francisco tie them in bundles of 50 each. The man said: "The truth of the matter is that I don't want a wife as I can't support one."

Meanwhile the letters continue to pour in to this man at the rate of at least 500 every steamer.

Jail Sentence To Be Given Speeders

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 25.—Every automobile driver brought into the court of Judge J. B. Cox, of Santa Ana, accused of driving more than fifty miles an hour, will go to jail without alternative of paying a fine, the judge publicly announced in an address before the Lions Club here. He recently sentenced a motion picture actress to a jail sentence for violating traffic laws.

"California issues 600,000 automobile licenses a year, which permits two operators for each machine," he said. "This gives us 1,200,000 operators. Of this army, fifty per cent are incompetent, blind or deaf, children or women. Forty percent do not know anything about a machine or machinery. The place to start the remedy is in the legislature, and the motor vehicle department.

"An age limit should be fixed by law at 21 years, and an examination to prove qualifications of applicants for operators' licenses should be held."

HEAVY WHEAT SHIPMENTS

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 25.—Receipts of wheat at Portland, are breaking all records this season, according to reports compiled by the Merchants Exchange. The total arrivals from the interior last week were the largest in the city's history, amounting to 1,535,600 bushels. In the corresponding week last year, net receipts were 739,100 bushels.

ONTARIO, Calif., Sept. 24.—Hungry deer feeding on the tender blossom shoots of the yucca tree, are responsible for the absence of the Spanish bayonet blossoms along the Sunset Trail in San Antonio canyon this summer, according to Chief Forest Ranger Arthur Shay.

"Although the yucca tree usually blossoms in early summer none was to be found until the end of June, and then only in small quantities in portions of the canyon where they commonly abound," Mr. Shay stated.

NEW YORK YANKEES SMOTHER INDIANS WITH RUNS IN THIRD GAME

REGISTER HIGHEST RUN MARK OF SEASON WITH TWENTY-ONE RUNS

Yankees go on hitting rampage and pound Cleveland pitchers for twenty safties; and regain full game lead

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—New York regained its full game lead in the American league today by defeating Cleveland, 21 to 7. New York's score is the season's highest.

The Yankees knocked out Ray Caldwell, formerly a New York pitcher, in the second inning and scored ten runs off Mails, a left hander, in the two innings he pitched. Of the eight earned runs scored on Mails in the fourth inning, seven were scored before a New York player was retired. Clark, a youngster, also was pounder hard, Meusel and Fewster hitting him for home runs.

Meusel's home run was his twenty-fourt hand enabled him to tie Williams of the St. Louis Browns for second place to Ruth.

Carl Mays was hit hard at times, but always in a position to take things easy. It was his twenty-sixth victory.

A capacity crowd of 40,000 persons saw the game. Rain fell at intervals. Score:

EUROPE HAS RUM-RUNNERS

Danish Shipping Still Idle

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 25.—Europe has its rum-runners, as well as America. Fifty per cent of Danish shipping is still idle and many smaller craft are employed in organized smuggling of whisky, gin and other alcoholic beverages to wet inhabitants of dry countries like Norway and Finland and in a smaller degree to Sweden.

A yachtsman who has been cruising in Norwegian waters told the correspondent that the price of a drink has doubled or trebled in Norway, where prohibition rules.

Just outside the three-mile limit are anchored ships, mostly Danish and German, but also a few British, with cargoes of prohibited drinks and rouns every one of these ships are dozens of small Norwegian boats waiting their turn to get part of the costly cargo.

To assist Norway in enforcing her prohibition law, Denmark has prohibited the export and re-export of spirits. This merely means that the smugglers go to German and British ports to buy whisky and gin and return once more to their trading stations just outside Norwegian territory.

The yachtsman said the Norwegian police and custom officials were powerless to deal with this industry and that practically every owner of a sailing or rowing boat in the little towns on the Norwegian coast is a smuggler.

The smartest of the rum-runners have turned the saloons of their ships into cabarets and do a roaring trade selling drinks over the counter.

Boxer Aspires to Be Physician

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Harvey Breitman of Brooklyn, known in the world of pugilism as Harvey Bright, has a dual ambition for the achievement of which he sets himself a limit of two more years—to become a practicing physician and featherweight boxing champion of the world.

In a little more than a year, during which he studied medicine, Breitman has fought his way up through twenty-eight flatin encounters to a position which, it is said, places him in line for a match with Johnny Kilbane. All this Breitman did while supporting his mother and contributing to the education of a brother and sister.

In 1918 Breitman, then a high school graduate, became physical culture instructor in a New York school. With the passage of the Walker bill legalizing boxing in the state, he turned professional pugilist with such success that his income from his first year's efforts as a boxer is said to have been nearly $20,000.

NEGRESS AVIATRIX

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Ten months ago Miss Bessie Coleman, a 24 year old negress, left Chicago, where she had been employed as a manicurist, for Europe. Today she returned a full fledged aviatrix, said to be the first of her race. She attended an aviation school in France.

Women's Uniforms to Be Permanent

DETROIT, Sept. 25.—The uniform for women employes of the Detroit postoffice has come to stay, William J. Nagel, postmaster, has made the announcement after six months' trial.

The uniform, consisting of a full length gray apron with sleeves and white collar, was made compulsory by Mr. Nagel last spring.

Mr. Nagel announced that all the 600 women employes of the postoffice must wear the uniforms "because many of the girls are spending too much money on dress, because they are attempting to outdo one another in this regard, and because there is a grave danger that such a practice will lead to snobbery and thereby lower efficiency in the Detroit postoffice."

"The women have found they can keep cleaner and do better work. All have been placed on a common level because all look alike. Whatever snobbery there was has been eliminated. The Detroit postoffice is now a thoroughly democratic institution."

FOOTBALL OPENS HERE NEXT SUNDAY

LOCAL LEGION VS. REEDLEY ELEVEN

FRESNO ELEVEN IN FINE CONDITION

Next Sunday will mark the official opening of the 1921 football season in Fresno when the Fresno American Legion team meets the Reedley Legion eleven. The game will be played on the new high school athletic field at the corner of Weldon and Palm avenues.

The local eleven gives prospects of being of the strongest gridiron teams that ever represented Fresno. The team shows signs of surpassing the crack Legion team of 1919.

A squad of twenty-five candidates have been practicing for the past month under the direction of Coach C. S. Leyland and with the remainder of this week to iron out a few wrinkles, the team should set up an enviable record.

The team has been practicing seven days a week and two full teams have been hacking each other every night. Although Coach Leymel has given out no definite lineup to start the Reedley game as so much competition exists for almost every position, he stated that the following players are showing up well for the first string at present. Richter and Leavell, ends. These two players held down the wing positions on the Legion 1919 team. Elsman and Davis, tackles. Elsman is a local boy and is showing up in fine shape. Davis played with the Akron, Ohio, professional team last year which toured the coast and played as guard. Danielsan and Leaburn guards. Danielsan played on the local Legion team in 1919. He is a wel experienced player having about fourteen years work on the gridiron. Leaburn played on the Camp Dix, army camp team. Charley Johnson will hold down the center position. Johnson is remembered as the star on the Legion team of 1919 who played rings around Rosenthal, all-American center and who played center for the Olympic club that year when the team played here. Oliver is picked to hold down the quarter position. He hails from Oklahoma University. "Dark Horse" Newman, assistant coach at the new high school will play left-half. He is regarded as the best ground gainer on team.

Chris Monson, one of the best football players on the coast will play fullback. He was the star of the Legion's 1919 team. Meyers will play the other back position.

The team will average around 175 pounds.

The Legion football committee, composed of E. S. Wolfer, Z. S. Leymel and R. L. Jewett have arranged games with the best teams on the coast.

Following is the schedule to date;

Oct. 2—Reedley Legion, here.
Oct. 9—Pacific Fleet, here.
Oct. 23—Selma Legion, away.
Nov. 6—Santa Clara University, here.
Nov. 13—Olympic Club, here.
Nov. 15—Mare Island Marines, here.
Dec. 11—Selma Legion, away.
Dec. 25—Presidio Army Camp, here.

The committee closed arrangements for a game with the Santa Clara College for a game on November 6. Negotiations for this game has been pending for some time and the committee completed arrangements Saturday. Another game which will likely appear on the schedule is a game with Occidental College. These two games should be among the best attended games on the schedule as a great number of graduates from these schools reside in the valley.

Season tickets for all Legion games on the Legion schedule will be on sale starting today. These can be had at the Legion headquarters. Tickets for the Reedley game can be purchased at all sporting goods stores and at the Legion headquarters.

The Pacific Fleet will come for a game with local eleven a week from Sunday, October 9.

SCIOTS EVEN UP RUNNING IN CITY BASEBALL SERIES

KINGSBURG, Cal., Sept. 25.—By scoring a 6 to 4 victory over the Kingsburg fireman here today, the Kingsburg Scouts made the count even in the three game baseball series being played for a large loving cup. The Firemen won the first game of the series, 10 to 6, last Saturday.

"Holy Bambino" Is Stolen From Church

ROME, Sept. 25.—The "Sacred Bambino" of the church of Holy Mary of the Victory has been stolen, but recovered. It is the revered image of the infant Jesus by Prusa, and is believed by many Italians to possess miraculous power of effecting cures among the people who worshipped at its shrine.

So revered was it that hundreds of pieces of jewelry were placed at its feet, dripped about its body and placed in close proximity to it as marks of spiritual devotion by the faithful who were convinced they had received healing.

One morning lately the thieves gained access to the altar where the "Bambino" is placed and made away with jewels and everything.

Discovery that the adored Image was not at its accustomed place was the signal for a general alarm, and hundreds of devout persons in the neighborhood of the church made their pilgrimage to the altar to pray for the restoration of the "Bambino."

During the day one of the thieves was caught, and this led to recovery of the revered "Bambino."

The church of Holy Mary of the Victory was erected to commemorate the victory of Lepanto, when the Crusaders defeated the Turks at sea. It is just in the shadow of the American embassy.

Changes in Traffic Bewilder Sydney

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 10.—(By Mail.)—So much confusion has followed the change of Sydney's street traffic rule from "Keep to the right" to "Keep to the left," that the city has been forced to employ "sandwich men" to wander about the principal thoroughfares, bearing signs that remind pedestrians and vehicle drivers of the new order.

The traffic rule change went into effect July 1, following a decision by the municipal authorities that the left side of the street and sidewalk was [illegible] the habits of a lifetime in an attempt to live up to the innovation.

Enthusiastic meetings in the great majority of districts resulted from Miss Clark's campaign.

The king of Newsboys, King Samuel Cole, will sell The Fresno Republican on the city's streets and at the Fair grounds this week. King Cole is in Fresno on the last leg of his journey around the world in the interests of the Boys' Memorial Newsboys Home in New York. He yesterday gave Fresno newsboys a lecture on "How To Sell Papers."

He also sold in Liverpool, Berlin, Paris and many cities throughout the United States. He served with the American army during the world war. He started his adventures as a newsboy in York, Pennsylvania, 25 years ago.

MAN MAY FACE FELONY CHARGE

Bad Checks Passed In City, Police Claim

A felony charge probably will be filed against Emilo G. Heiter today, who was arrested Saturday night after police say he had passed twelve fictitious checks in this city.

Investigations made by the police yesterday revealed Heitert to be a fugitive from Los Angeles authorities. He escaped September 17 and had been in Fresno three days, police say.

Partially contradicting the Saturday night story told Inspector Nicholas, Heitert is reported by Inspector Alex Castellon yesterday as saying Pomona is the only city in which he has passed worthless checks. Nichols stated early Sunday morning Heitert claimed to have passed fictitious checks in New York City, New York, in Orange county, California, and in Los Angeles.

Heitert, according to Castellon, has said he was arrested in Pomona, Los Angeles county, five months ago for passing bad checks. The felony charge was reduced to a misdemeanor, Heitert saying he received a year's sentence in the Los Angeles county jail. He was recently made a jail trusty and Saturday, September 17, given permission to go to the Lankershim building in that city to settle a debt. Two deputy sheriffs accompanied him, he later succeeded in eluding and escaping from their custody.

Sergeant Fornes, Inspector O'Brien, and Officer McNicklo arrested Heitert at J. and Tulare streets, and later recovered the clothing he had purchased from local merchants.

Checks ranging from $2 to $51.65 were passed by Heitert the last three days, according to the police. Among the store victims were the Neil White shoe store, Goodman's clothing store, Henry Dermer clothing store, McCabe the Hatter, General Cigar store, Demir Brothers clothing store, Landon and Potter drug store, Baker and Colson drug store, the Valley Grill, and Wilson's candy store.

To Discuss Plans For High School

The Alta Vista District Improvement association will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Holmes playground to discuss, among other things, the new proposed East Fresno high school. The meeting has been called by Newton Johnson, secretary, and Fred D. Prescott, vice president of the association. The site of the proposed school is at the northwest corner of the county farm.

Other matters to be taken up at the meeting is a proposed new park in the section east of the Alta Vista District offered for a consideration by Billings & Meyering, local realtors; also the matter of installing electroliers in the district and the keeping up of parkings and shrubberies in the district.

All residents of the district have been urged to attend.

Fresnan Returns From Tour

Children Study Behind Beer Bottle

Tourists Pay To Enter Town

By LURA SCHRAM WOLFE

Hatred Kamp of Fresno recently returned from a several months trip through Central America, sighting scenes where children learn their "readin', writin' and 'rithmetic" behind a beer bottle, where a tourist pays a dollar to enter a town and a similar amount to leave, where an American in U. S. coin is subjected to a $20 toll in Guatemala and where Off the coast of Mexico, Kamp tells of witnessing for the last time on his trip what is known as the "Southern Cross" in formation in the heavens seen only in certain waters. It is in the shape of a cross. At Manzanillo Mexico, a town built on three small hills, he visited a school, where the 100 pupils sat on small wooden benches three and four to a bench with bottles of beer on their desks. At the girls' school where pupils from 5 to 16 years attend, the teacher gave a demonstration of how to use the Gringo's, each pupil getting Kamp says that the louder the pupil spoke the more pleased was the teacher. "In these schools," he points out, "all the work is done by the group and not the individual, as they think the individual can only learn through the aid of others."

At San Jose pensos into the town were obtained for $1.50. The stores in Guatalama City are, for the most part, run by Chinese, according to Kamp, and on account of the intense heat the people sleep in hammocks. The many little oval shacks with thatched roofs, were devoid of furniture of any sort and the family eats, sleeps and plays in this one room.

At La Libertad, Salvador, tourists must pay $2 to enter the town. Kamp says that in each town they sauntered through the streets for interesting sights, but everywhere it was the same: the low shacks, the small shops, the single church, the custom house, the postoffice, groves of palms, the dirty native Indians everywhere, the filthy streets. To leave La Libertad, the military officers demanded an additional fee, but the natives have no set price.

Kamp tells of the many beautiful homes in Havana, one of the costliest being the mansion of a Cuban tobacco planter, built at the cost of one million two hundred and fifty $1,250,000 and covering a square block.

There are two fine gambling palaces in Havana one for men and women and one exclusively for women. Kamp says that one of the hotels charges $20 a night for a room, this amount not including meals.

YICK DEFENSE TO OPEN TODAY

Chinese Charged With Murder

Defense testimony in the trial of Lee Yick, charged with murder in connection with the tong war outbreak in Fresno on June 7, will continue this morning at 9:30 o'clock before Judge S. L. Strother, pursuant to an adjournment on Saturday noon. It is believed that Yick will take the stand in his own behalf today.

The trial of Yick has already consumed six days, two of which were necessary for the selection of a jury. The prosecution, which is being conducted by District Attorney B. W. Gearhart and O. L. Everts, claim that Lee Yick is vice president and military chieftain of the Suey On tong and that he gave the orders for the killing of Bing Kong members, which resulted in the death of said Took Kee.

Attorneys M. K. Harris, Herbert McDowell and R. G. Retallick have attempted to prove for the defense that Yick did not give the orders for the killing but that he urged Suey On longmen to refrain from violence. Witnesses testified that although Yick was near the scene of the crime, he did not give the orders. Other witnesses testified that Yick was a man of excellent character before the killing and his subsequent arrest.

Many Girls Club Members

1,000,000 In Agricultural Society

"Y" First To Develop Project

Just as the local girl reserves are being reorganized for winter work, Fresno will find interesting an account of the aims and purposes of this organization among the young girls.

Miss Ada Beveridge, girls' work secretary of the Y. W. C. A., stated yesterday: "While nearly every one realizes that girls' clubs exist, actual statistics of their size and number may surprise some. Last year in the United States Girls' Agricultural Club there were one million members; in the Camp Fire, one hundred and thirty thousand; eighty-six thousand in the Girl Scouts; forty-six thousand in the Girls' Friendly League, and a hundred thousand girl reserves of the Y. W. C. A. It is apparent that such numbers must be the result of long years of club organization, dating back to the finest of groups, whose members were undoubtedly thought queer. Today her club and its activities are matters of real pride and joy to every girl member."

One of the first organizations to develop club activities among girls was the Y. W. C. A., which opened its first room in Boston in 1866, and over fifty years of study and demonstration have resulted in the girl reserves, a national movement through the Y. W. C. A. for the teen age girl and the younger girls in business and industry.

The object of the movement is to give girls, through normal, natural activities, the habits, insights and ideals which will make them responsible women, capable and ready to help make America more true to its best hopes and traditions.

The Girl Reserve movement is nondenominational and any girl between the ages of twelve and eighteen may become a member. Qualification for membership is based upon the acceptance of the Girl Reserve slogan, "To face life squarely," and their purpose, "To find and give the best."

Girl Reserves are organized among grade school and high school girls, business college students and younger girls in business and industry. The programs vary to meet the need of the three groups and the community in which they live.

The unit of organization among grade school girls is the corps. The officers of the corps are elected by the girls themselves and with an adult advisor the S. O. S. or executive council of the corps. The S. O. S. discusses and plans program work in general and refers his decisions to the corps as a whole. The grade school program is based on an honor system by which a girl may rise from the fifth to the first class of Girl Reserves. Honors are eagerly sought, be they for regular exercise, getting eight hours of sleep each night for six weeks, avoidance of gum chewing or leaning to paddle a canoe or play tennis. Knowledge, service and spirit honors, when gained, all add to the insignia which shows the honor status of the proud Girl Reserve.

The high school girl and the younger girl in business and industry have a very elastic program, but it is still based on the four fundamental interests of a girl's life, health, knowledge, service and spirit. The chief difference between the Girl Reserve movement and that of other girl movements is that it places particular emphasis on spirit.

The service of the Girl Reserve may be small, carried on in the home, the community, or it may be large and deal with world tasks. Visits to shut-ins and hospitals, sewing for the Red Cross, partaking of community clean-up campaign, all challenge the girl's interest. And because all work and no play makes Jill an dull as Jack, the Girl Reserves go on picnic hikes, give plays, have sing-songs and stunt and club parties for boys and girls.

The Girl Reserves of Nevada, Arizona and California have this year built up a scholarship fund, with which they have sent two Girl Reserve honor girls to college. In 1921-22 they will work to increase this fund and toward raising $500 for Girl Reserve work in China.

Girl Reserve groups have been active for three years in Fresno, and are, with opening of school, drawing up their plans for the coming year with the definite purpose of interesting every girl in Fresno through some one of their activities. Full information for girls wishing to become Girl Reserves—or women interested in the leadership of these groups may be had from Mrs. George Osborn, chairman of the Girls' Work committee or from the girls' work department of the local Y. W. C. A. on Van Ness avenue.

A large number of aliens will take their naturalization examinations before Federal Examiner Frank Anderson on Wednesday and Thursday of this week. The greater portion of those in the class will be examined on Thursday. The examinations will be held in departments one and two of the superior court before Judges Strother and Beaumont.

There will be a large number of Germans and Austrians examined on these two days because of the signing of a treaty with their respective countries. Notices have been sent to the aliens stating that if they did not appear in the court with their witnesses on the day mentioned, their names would be stricken from the record to reduce the applications.

Feel how smooth this paint is

NO wonder Certain-teed paint is so smooth—it is made of the finest grade materials ground exceedingly fine and mixed thoroughly and evenly by machines which make no mistakes. And how it does spread! No ordinary paint equals it. The brush glides over the surface, leaving a velvety coating of paint that completely hides the surface and keeps it hidden.

You'd expect such high grade paint as Certain-teed to cost more, but it actually costs less. The Certain-teed people certainly know how to make paint, and they know how to price it. Each color stands on its own price, based on cost. You pay less for those colors which cost less to make. That's fair. Everybody pays only for what he gets and nothing more. We have the right Certain-teed Paint or Varnish for everything inside or outside your house. Come in and see us before you buy any paint.
